FRED BARR CUTS PRICES DESPITE NEW WAR TAX

"Despite the fact that we are now compelled to pay a 5% war tax on automobile tires, Ford parts and the numerous accessories that we carry in our store, we are going to continue our cut-rate business on the same policies as heretofore," said Fred J. Barr today. "In other words, I am not going to 'pass the buck' to the consumer," continued Mr. Barr. "I have figured out a system whereby I can add the war tax to my overhead expense, and still give my patrons the same cut rates they enjoyed before the war tax became effective on March 1st. This scheme, of course, cuts my profits extensively, but I don't believe in tacking the war tax onto the price and then passing this additional expense on to the customer. I believe that the many patrons of the Barr stores will thoroughly appreciate this method of doing business, and the additional trade that will come to us during the coming year will doubtless more than offset the increased overhead expense which the war tax makes necessary. "You doubtless realize that it is a most flagrant violation to charge war tax to the customer when the dealer himself has not paid it. Any concerns that have followed this method will find themselves coming in conflict with the authorities if they do not change their system. In my case, we are paying the war tax, charging it to overhead expense, and yet our customers are getting the advantage of the same cut rates that existed before the war tax went into effect."—Adv.

TEACH HOW TO PACK.

TALES TOLD OF WOMEN WEAR ONLY STRIPS OF SACKS

"I have seen Serbian women with only strips of gunny-sacking about their bodies. Particularly in the districts of Vranja, Prokuplje and Leskovac, there is the direst need for clothing of all kinds."

Captain John Jager of Minneapolis, a member of the lately disbanded Red Cross agricultural commission to Serbia, would have every man, woman and child in America ransack the closet and the rag-bag for the things they will not wear any more and send them to Europe to ease the intense suffering of the refugees.

Captain Jager tells of the things he has seen in Serbia. "In December in Skopje, a pair of shoes cost 180 francs. The highheeled shoes of the American women would go on feet that are bare today. Of course, the Serbian women would take off the heels, for no Jugo-Slavian could wear the shoes of America. But they would have shoes again—the first many of them have worn in many a month. "They can use clothes of any size. The women are very clever at remaking clothes. If you could only send them needles, thread, scissors, thimbles and buttons, too, every Serbian woman would be grateful."

According to Captain Jager, fully half of the population of four and a half millions in Serbia and a majority of the natives of all Jugo-Slavia, would welcome with great joy gifts of used clothing from America.

The Red Cross drive for second-hand clothing will continue until March 30. All the clothing will be sent over as soon as shipping space can be had. It is expected that 10,000 tons will be sent. Not all of the clothing will go to the Balkans. The refugees in France, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Poland and Palestine are also in great need and will be supplied.
